ASSIGNMENT

1. Read a book from the LIST OF NON-FICTION NOVELS (if you find a non-fiction novel that you would like to read that is not on the list, contact Mrs. Wittwer for approval).

2. Prepare a BOOK TALK about your novel that you will share with your classmates the first week of school.

3. Complete a PROJECT from the project options provided and then share your project during your BOOK TALK.

BOOK TALK

Things to Discuss in Your Book Talk (5 minute presentation)

- Tell us the title, the name of the author
- Do some research on the author and tell us about other books he/she has written. (There may be some information on the book cover.)
- Tell us about the setting. Where and when did the story take place?
- Who is the main character in your book? Describe him/her.
- Was there a conflict or struggle that the character had to overcome?
- Share some story details but don’t give away too much of the plot.
- What was the mood of this novel: funny, sad, exciting?
- What was the theme? (The central idea or lesson about life that the author wants to know.)
- Why did you like it? What do you remember most about the book?
- You may want to read a passage from your novel: an interesting quotation, a piece of good description or a memorable line or paragraph.
- Who would you recommend this book to and why?
- Why should the viewer want to go out and get this book?
LIST OF NON-FICTION NOVELS

1. The Burn Journals by Brent Runyon

The list author says:

"On the sixteenth page of this incisive memoir, eighth-grader Brent Runyon drenches his bathrobe with gasoline and sets himself on fire. The burns cover 85 percent of his body and require six months of painful skin grafts and equally invasive mental-health rehabilitation. From the beginning, readers are immersed in the mind of 14-year-old Brent as he struggles to heal body and mind."

The list author says:

"Chinese Cinderella is the perfect title for this compelling autobiography in which, like the fairy-tale maiden, Yen Mah’s childhood was ruled by a cruel stepmother. It tells the story of her painful childhood in China where she lived until the age of fourteen with her father, stepmother, and siblings, all of whom considered her bad luck because her mother died shortly after giving birth to her."

Used & New from: $0.01

The list author says:

"This book introduces us to Jack O'Brien, the near-legendary coach at Charlestown High School in Boston, whose life "seemed to begin and end with basketball." His devotion to his players' well-being helped keep them off the streets and, in many cases, secured them college scholarships. His successes, including four state championships in a row, derived in great part from a "tough love" approach."
12. All But My Life: A Memoir by Barbara Rosenblatt

The list author says:

"Gerda Weissmann Klein tells us the story of a young girl forced into the events of the Nazi Holocaust. The story of a family torn apart never to see one another again. The story of Nazi work camps and death camps and seemingly endless inhumanity. Sadly, this story was her own."

17. Conversations with J. K. Rowling by Lindsey Fraser

The list author says:

"This is the first and only true telling of Ms. Rowling's history because it is in her own words, from her birth in Chipping Sodbury near Bristol, England, to the stories about her favorite and least favorite teachers in school growing up, and to the funny misunderstanding in her first fan letter."

18. Witch-Hunt: Mysteries of the Salem Witch Trials by Marc Aronson

The list author says:

"An acclaimed young adult historian sifts through the facts, myths, half-truths, misinterpretations, and theories around the Salem witch trials to present readers with a vivid, nonfiction narrative of one of the most compelling mysteries in American history."
19. Chocolate for a Teen's Dreams: Heartwarming Stories About Making Your Wishes Come True (Chocolate Series) by Katherine A. Briccetti

The list author says:

"A collection of real-life stories written by teenage girls and women relating their dreams concerning such things as love, friendship, and recognition of their talents, and how they make dreams and wishes come true."

24. Into Thin Air: A Personal Account of the Mt. Everest Disaster by Jon Krakauer

The list author says:

"A childhood dream of someday ascending Mount Everest, a lifelong love of climbing, and an expense account all propelled writer Jon Krakauer to the top of the Himalayas last May. His powerful, cautionary tale of an adventure gone horribly wrong is a must-read."

The list author says:

"Always Running documents Rodriguez’ youth as an East Los Angeles gang member in an effort to steer his teenage son, Ramiro, away from the gang that he recently joined. A member of various Latino gangs based in and around the South San Gabriel Valley during the late 1960s, Rodriguez participated in random acts of violence, and was imprisoned on several occasions for the crimes he committed."
26. The Glass Castle: A Memoir by Jeannette Walls

The list author says:

"Walls chronicles her upbringing at the hands of eccentric, nomadic parents--Rose Mary, her frustrated-artist mother, and Rex, her brilliant, alcoholic father. A thoughtful and sensitive memoir told with such grace, kindness and fabulous sense of humor. It's probably the best account ever written of a dysfunctional family, which any reader will relate to it (as written by an Amazon.com user)."

PROJECT OPTIONS

Option #1: A Book: “The Lessons of (author/narrator).”

Directions:
1. Look through the novel and locate a minimum of 5 passages where the author/narrator teaches some sort of lesson about life. Bookmark these so you can find them later.

2. Create a “facing-page” booklet of these lessons. On one side, copy (by hand or by photocopy) the actual text where author/narrator is teaching a lesson. On the other side, write a concise, clear paragraph which explains the following:

   3. What is the lesson author/narrator is trying to teach?

   4. What situation in the novel inspired author/narrator to teach this lesson?

   5. How is this lesson important to the overall novel?

   6. Also write a short, two to three paragraph “introduction” to put as “page one” of your booklet. This introduction should include the title and author of the novel, a VERY brief overview of what happens in the book, and an explanation about who the characters are. The introduction should also state that the goal of your booklet is to look at the lessons author/narrator teaches.

   7. Collect your writings and your copied examples together into a clean and pleasant looking booklet.

Option #2: A Picture Book

Directions:

1. Create a storyboard (comic strip) of the main events which occur from the beginning of the novel to the end.

2. Draw a minimum of 20 “freeze-frames” or “comic strip scenes” which show key moments in the story.

3. Write two-sentence captions for each of your “freeze-frames” which explain what is happening in that moment and what is being said, why it is being said, and how the statements affect the characters or plot.

4. Collect your drawings into a well-presented, nice-looking booklet OR poster.

Option #3: A Play

Directions:

1. Turn the novel into a play by writing a script.

2. The play must have a minimum of 5 Acts with a minimum of 3 scenes per Act.

3. It must be typed and presented in a professional looking folder.

Option #4: Create Your Own Project
Directions:

1. If you would like to create your own project you must submit a clear plan to Mrs. Wittwer by email and have the project approved prior to beginning the project.

2. The project must show depth of understanding of the novel.

3. The project must demonstrate your artistic talent (writing, drawing, painting, videography, dance, stop animation, etc.).
